Like any other tool, Photoshop's power comes with its learning curve. In spite of what you've seen in television commercials, Photoshop is not an intuitive program, and learning how to use it correctly will take some time and practice. In this book, you'll learn how to use Photoshop, from the basics of opening and saving files, to mixing and matching layers, to manipulating and transforming images, to creating photographs with filters. The Photoshop interface Whether you're a seasoned Photoshop user or a newbie, it's important to understand how Photoshop works. This book covers the basics of the Photoshop interface and the tools and icons used in editing and composing images. Getting started In order to edit images using Photoshop, you must have the program installed on your computer. Photoshop is primarily used for non-destructive editing, so take careful note of the options that are available. The Save As option is your go-to when you want to make minor changes to your image file. However, beware that you can inadvertently overwrite an important or irreplaceable file. So keep this in mind when you're working in Photoshop and decide if the potential loss is worth the potential gain. If your idea of the perfect photo is one that you can instantly print on a home photo printer or throw in a frame, you can perform minor tweaks quickly by pressing Ctrl+Z (Windows) or Command+Z (Mac) and then reloading the file from the original or from a version you created earlier. These changes are local to your computer and won't affect your original file, so you can be sure you've made the correct tweaks. Of course, if you make

One-dimensional chains of spherical molecules: formation and properties of dendrimers. The thermodynamics of the formation of dendrimers has been studied theoretically by combining an exact solution of the three-body problem with the law of mass action. Different initiation degrees, from zero to one, have been considered. The model has been designed to study the effect of the diffusion on the formation of the dendrimers and on the size of the growing chains. The dimensionality effects of the dendrimers have also been analyzed, for both zero and complete initiations. The elongation process is shown to be an entangled process, which correlates with formation kinetics of the chains. Finally, the preliminary applications of this model are reported./* * Licensed under the Apache License, Version 2.0 (the "License"); * you may not use this file except in compliance with the License. * You may obtain a copy of the License at * * * * Unless required by applicable law or agreed to in writing, software * distributed under the License is distributed on an "AS IS" BASIS, * WITHOUT WARRANTIES OR CONDITIONS OF ANY KIND, either express or implied. * See the License for the specific language governing permissions and * limitations under the License. */ package io.prestosql.plugin.thrift.api; import io.airlift.configuration.Config; import io.airlift.configuration.ConfigDescription; import java.util.Set; import java.util.function.Supplier; import static io.prestosql.plugin.thrift.api.ThriftFields.toThriftField; import static io.prestosql.plugin.thrift.api.ThriftFormat.THRIFT_FORMAT; import static io.prestosql.plugin.thrift.api.ThriftFormatV3.THRIFT_FORMAT_V3; import static io.prestosql.plugin.thrift.api.ThriftFormatVersion.V1_0; import static io.prestosql.plugin.thrift.api.ThriftFormatVersion.V1_1; import static io.prestosql.plugin.
